The inflation in the Church

Currently, the economy is not very good due to high inflation. Economically, inflation means a general increase in prices of goods and services and a fall in the purchasing value of money. In other words, during the period of high inflation, our income and savings can be the same but our quality of daily life becomes worse.

Inflation can happen in the Church as well. This inflation is not about money or prices. There are at least two ways in which the inflation can be seen. First, the inflation can be shown in the national census of population. According to the census, the percentage of the Catholic population can look good. Currently, there are 5,075,907 Catholics in Australia ("Cultural diversity: Census, 2021 | Australian Bureau of Statistics". 7 April 2022), representing about 18.9% of the overall population. It doesn't look bad.

However, we may have a different view if we have a look at the numbers of Mass attendees. In 1996, there were around 864,000 people attending Sunday Masses in Australia – 18 per cent of the Australian Catholic population. But by 2016, Sunday Mass attendance rates had dropped to just 11.8 per cent of all Catholics (<https://www.catholicweekly.com.au/its-all-in-the-numbers/>). Now we are in 2022. We did have a Mass attendee count last year but the report hasn't been released yet. We anticipate the current Mass attendance rates will be much lower than the rates in 2016. The inflation means that there are still high numbers of Catholics according to the census but with a very low percentage of Mass attendees.

Second, the inflation in the Church can be shown in the involvement of Catholics in the Church/parish life. I don't have actual figures to talk about it but we can all feel it. In the past, more people were more passionate in participating in the building of the Church: serving at Mass, being liturgical ministers, donating money and so on. Now, of course, there are still a good number of people who continue to do these things, especially in our parish. However, the number is much lower than the number in the past.

Taking our Parish Pastoral Council (PPC) as an example, there were 11 members of PPC in 2017. Two years later, we had the same number but some of them had to resign before their term was finished due to their family and/or work commitments. Last year, we could only have eight members for our new PPC and some time ago, two of them resigned for the same reasons. We tried to have about 5 new members, but we have had only three. I'm not complaining about anyone, and I understand everyone's situation. I thank all those who have contributed to the building of our parish. I'm just trying to make a point: among the current Mass attendees, the number of those who are able or willing to be involved in parish life is becoming fewer. To me, this is a type of inflation in the Church.

Dear friends, we need to bring the inflation in the church down, in the same way that we don't want to have a high inflation in the economy. The best way to do so is to encourage all of our parishioners to make themselves "rich in the sight of God" (Luke 12:21, from the Gospel for this Sunday). Let us focus more on our spiritual life and the building of our spiritual family. If all of us try to do so, the inflation in the Church will definitely become low in the future.

Parents are welcome to attend.

Safeguarding Surveys: The protection and wellbeing of children and vulnerable adults is at the core of Church mission, and setting the right approach to safeguarding is important. The thoughts and views of children and the Church community are essential in helping shape that approach. The Archdiocese has prepared two short safeguarding surveys to help gather feedback from children and the Church community. The surveys are completely anonymous and the parish will not be identified. The surveys can be completed on a computer, laptop, tablet or mobile phone.

Online Child Safeguarding Survey (5 – 12 years) Parents and Guardians may wish to assist children in completing the survey and explore their responses if needed.

Faith Matters: Feast of St Ignatius of Loyola 1491-1556

The short story is that of a young ambitious Spanish Court Dandy and soldier who became badly wounded in battle, found Jesus, went on to found a powerful Catholic Order and to develop a hugely helpful and practical guide to living and experiencing life with Jesus. The longer much more interesting story is of a man from the minor Spanish Nobility who went to the Spanish Court to develop his career and trained in the military arts to this end. He was a self-confessed dandy, interested only in himself and his career.

Struck down and badly wounded by a cannonball in a battle at Pamplona, and butchered by battlefield surgery, his enforced recuperation brought him face to face with Jesus through reading stories of the lives of the Saints and of Jesus which were the only books available. This experience changed his whole pattern of life and convinced him to give away his former ambitious self-seeking lifestyle and to focus on living his life to the glory of God. Expressed in his motto AMDG/Ad Majorem Dei Gloriam (For the Greater Glory of God).

After a year of reflection at Manresa, & theological education at the University of Paris he continued to develop his great work the Spiritual Exercises which he had begun at Manresa. Whilst at university, he introduced his contemporaries, Francis Xavier and Peter Faber to the Spiritual Exercises and with them he formed the Society of Jesus. All three were later canonized.

His Spiritual Exercises forms a manual for living life with Jesus at a practical achievable level. It is meant to be done rather than just read and provides a way into experiencing the Eucharist like no other.

Undertaking the Spiritual Exercises is a life changing experience, open to all people and not just the theologically minded. It is well worth the time and effort involved.

We pray the St Ignatius prayer:

Take, Lord, and receive all my liberty, My memory, my understanding
And my entire will, All I have and call my own.

You have given all to me. To you, Lord, I return it.

Everything is yours; do with it what you will. Give me only your love and your grace, That is enough for me.
